This last precinct was much like the rest, though not quite so large as some of them. Satterfield added to his majority, Anthony was a close second, while Smith trailed hopelessly as he had during the entire night, Folkes kept his long lead on Cary, and, the big fight was over.

TWO ELECTION ARRESTS

"Buster" Brown and W. E. Pollard Mix with Police as Returns Come In.
C. E. Brown, better known as "Buster," and W. E. Pollard, two election enthusiasts, were arrested at Sanger Hall last night, the one charged with interfering with the police in the discharge of their duty, and the other with falling to move when ordered.

It seems that the officer in charge of the door ordered Pollard to move when the latter was trying to enter and upon his alleged refusal, placed him under arrest. Brown is alleged to have remonstrated with the officers, and he, too, was arrested. Both were balled as soon as they arrived in the Second Station for their appearance in the Police Court this morning.

FARMER FOUND DEAD

M. B. Burgum Dies Suddenly of Heart Discease at His Home.

M. B. Burgum, a farmer, living by himself on the Charles City Road, about nine miles below the city, was found dead in his house early yesterday morning. The body was viewed yesterday afternoon by County Coroner W. A. Deas, who gave his opinion that heart disease was the cause of his death, and deemed an inquest unnecessary. The dead man was found by Charles Lisburne, who lives next farm to him.

The body was lying on the floor of the kitchen close by the cooking stove, fully dressed, indicating that he was in the act of preparing his breakfast, as he did his own cooking. Mr. Lisburne reported the case to the courthouse at once.

Burgum came to the county a few years ago from Madison, Wis. He bought his farm, paying cash, and had just completed a new house. He was prosperous and highly respected. He was fifty years of age. As far as is known he has only one relative, a son, O. T. Burgum, who lives at 122 Rush Street, Chicago, He was was wired of his father's death by Sheriff L. H. Kemp yesterday afternoon.
